WorkingRite has been delivering a work-based mentored training programme for hard-to-reach young people across Scotland for nearly two decades. Our model is built on creating a one-to-one mentoring relationship between a trainee and an adult working mentor, selected from within the workforce of a local business - any kind of business. We also work throughout schools in Scotland, offering support to selected young people as they transition from the school environment.

Our work is with young people from challenging situations, who have not engaged with school. We currently have a staff of 13 project co-ordinators, each of whom supports between 20 and 30 young people a year into these mentored work placements and then on to jobs and apprenticeships. That's around 300 a year. At the same time the complexity of the barriers faced by our young people has also increased meaning our support is hugely in demand. We expect to grow the number of young people we support year on year going forward.

Our strategy is to work with young people earlier, in more depth and for longer.

Earlier: reaching young people earlier in their lives and providing access to a vocational pathway while in the S4 year at school (Rite to Work programme)

More depth: more in depth support for the young people that have already left school. More flexible lengths of participation, multiple placements where necessary, community level partnership work to explore the needs of the wider family (WorkingRite programme)

Longer: every young person that achieves a destination through a WorkingRite programme will have the option of being matched with an adult, volunteer mentor to help them navigate the transition into working life – and beyond (On Your Side Mentoring programme)

Additional background information on WorkingRite

Over the last few years WorkingRite has worked hard to diversify our funding mix and have recently secured significant investment that will see us grow our work across the country. We have also recently appointed a new CEO who has a vision to see us increase our work in the 5 local authorities we already work in and expand into new areas of Scotland where the needs of young people are greatest.

All this means it is a very exciting time to be joining WorkingRite.
